Threats to Network Data

There are many ways that data can be lost, damaged or destroyed. Protecting important data is one of the primary responsibilities of a network administrator. If data on a network is destroyed, a company could experience serious financial losses and reductions in employee productivity.

- Computer Failure
- Accidents
- Lack of Training
- Fire
- Natural Disasters
- Crackers
- Electronic Eavesdropping
- Theft
- Infection
- Detection
- Backups