Budget

Planning, setting up and maintaining a connection between a network and the Internet can be very expensive. Before a network administrator connects a network lo the Internet, the necessary budget for supporting a long-term connection should be determined.