

Hardware or Software

A gateway allows two different types of networks to exchange information. A gateway can be a hardware device, such as a computer, which is physically connected to the network and transfers information between networks. A gateway can also be software that allows two different protocols to exchange information on the same network.

