Airport

In the airline industry, many different systems interact in order to ensure that planes stay on schedule and that they fly safely. Nearly all of these systems rely on computers to some degree. Computers are involved in everything from the passenger's initial travel arrangements to the functioning of an airport and the airplanes that fly into it.

Airport facility includes:

- Self check in system
- Screens telling you flight times
- Screens telling you flight delays
- Metal detectors
- Bag scanners