

Efficiency

Intranets allow employees to access internal company information quickly and efficiently. When company information is easy to access, employee productivity often increases. Companies can use intranets to distribute information such as phone directories, product listings and job openings. A company could also use their intranet to inform employees of a new project or client.

