Operating System

The operating system on a server Is often determined by the applications the server runs or the tasks the server performs. Some applications may only be available for one type of operating system. The applications on the serve must be compatible with the operating system that runs on the server. For more information about operating systems.