

Eid

Eid is a major Muslim festival. It is celebrated in India and many other countries worldwide. It falls on the next day after the month of Ramadan. During Ramadan, Muslims fast for thirty days.

People don't eat or drink anything throughout the day. The fast is broken in the evening, and everyone eats together. On Eid day, people get together to pray at dargah or mosques. All mosques are decked with lights and other decorations. After the prayers or mamas, everyone hugs each other and wishes each other happiness and prosperity. Sweet vermicelli or seviyan and other delicacies are made to celebrate the festival with family and friends.
