

Fire Station

- A. A fire station is a building where fire engines are kept to put out the fire.
- B. Some fire stations are staffed by full-time fire fighters.
- C. These fire stations have offices and living areas for them.
- D. There will also be beds, for when they are on duty at night.
- E. They wait at the fire station to be called out to an emergency.
- F. The firefighters often slide down a pole to get downstairs to the fire engine, as this is quicker than walking down stairs.
- G. They try to safely bring the people, trapped in fire.

