

Introduction of Metals and Materials

 Metals are natural compounds of earth's crust, which are generally found in the form of metal ores while a material is a broad term for a chemical substance or mixture of substances that constitute a thing. Most of the materials which we see in our daily life are very different from each other.

