

Branch and Leaf

Leaf is a very important part of the plant as it prepares food for the whole plant. A leaf is green in color, its flat and helps in the growth of the plant. They come in different shapes, sizes, and colors, and are generally flattened and thin. They are the main organ responsible for photosynthesis as they contain chlorophyll.

