

Feathers

A feather is one of the soft, fringed plumes that cover the bodies of birds. Some feathers are tiny and downy, while others are large and brilliantly colored. They are of three types:

⇒ A. Flight feathers

Flight feathers help birds to fly. They are found on the wings and the tail.

B. Body feathers

Body feathers are colored feathers, which cover the body of the bird.

C. Down feathers

Down feathers are soft and fluffy feathers found close to the body of a bird.
