

Work

When a force moves something, work is done. When you open a door you do work. When you kick a football you do work. Pushing a chair is easy, but pushing a cupboard is difficult. You need more force to move the cupboard. A machine or tool which helps us to do work by applying a very less force is called simple machine. It increases the speed of a work.

