

Snow

When the water droplet of vapour convert into ice and the clouds themselves are very cold, it is called snow. The ice so formed is in the form of soft snowflakes. They are needle or star shaped.

