

Introduction of First Aid

Life is very precious but accidents can happen any time. A small mistake such as ignoring a road sign, can lead you to a fatal accident. So, one should always be prepared with first aid to at least help others and yourself till you reach a hospital.

First aid, as the name suggests, is the first medical help given to an injured till the doctor arrives. A trained person, for safety reasons, must do first aid. We must learn how to give first aid. When someone gets injured from an accident or with fetal accident at that time the treatment given to him before reaching the hospital is first aid.

Different kinds of accident have different first aid.

