

Interdependence Between Plants and Animals

The plants and animals both are dependent on each other for different functions. Such as plants utilize carbon dioxide and release oxygen where as animals utilize oxygen and release carbon dioxide. Animals also help the plants in their pollination and germination of seeds.

