

Chemical Change

When a substance undergoes a chemical change, its molecular composition is changed entirely. A chemical change is a permanent change. During a chemical change new substances are formed. A few examples of chemical change are digestion of food, burning of coal, rusting etc.

