

Introduction and Layers of Atmosphere

An atmosphere contains the air that we breathe. Without air we can't live even for few minutes. All living organisms on the earth need air to breathe. Air is a mixture of various gases, surrounding our planet in the form of a thick layer. This blanket of air is called the atmosphere Earth's gravity holds up the atmosphere around it.

