

Water Vapour

- ⇒ A. Water evaporates from seas, rivers and lakes which gets collected in the air.
- B. Water vapor present in the air also causes changes in weather.
- C. It can be condensed and is responsible for the formation of clouds, fog, rain and snow.
- D. The amount of water vapor present in the air is termed as the humidity.

