An Ideal Teacher

A teacher is one who imparts knowledge to students in the best possible way he/she can, a person who can become their role model and the one who helps in shaping the students into good citizens. The teaching profession is a very noble profession and fit for those who really wish to be among the children or youth to guide them correctly and not for those who only wish to make money.

In the eyes of the students some teachers are inspiring and motivating. An ideal teacher is the one who not only helps in learning or acquiring knowledge but also engages with the students to help with their problems or difficulties. He or she is determined to bring the best out of the students by putting in effort and encouragement. An ideal teacher is excellent in his/her subject, preparation for class lecture and teaching method. They take pains to individually attend to students, correct or explain their mistakes. They have patience to go through the answers and correct the test papers with care. An ideal teacher is always very approachable and clears the doubts of all the students in the class. They take pains to give notes or answers and prepare children for competitions. They are always a great support to the students. An ideal teacher praises students to uplift them while sometimes pointing out his/her mistakes.

An Ideal Student

An ideal student is one who is fully aware of his duties and responsibilities. The students of today are the leaders of tomorrow. A nation can develop if the students have high ideals before them. A student who scores high marks is not necessarily an ideal student. An ideal student must be an embodiment of simple living and high thinking. He should be fearless and bold to face the trials and tribulations of life.

An ideal student lives in accordance with the rules of conduct and discipline. This is the time of life when the foundation of character is laid. It has aptly been said that if wealth is lost, nothing is lost; if health is lost, something is lost; but if character is lost everything is lost.

A student without any sense of discipline is like a ship without a sailor. It sails adrift and never reaches the harbour. He must follow the rules of the school and obey the words of his teachers.

He should choose his friends wisely. He must be fully conscious to ensure that no evil tempts him. He knows very well that a single rotten apple spoils the whole basket.

An ideal student knows that he owes a lot to his parents. He never forgets to look after them when they become old. He is a upholder of humanity. He shares concerns and problems with the members of his family. He takes a keen interest in social service.

Importance of Family

Family is a very important part of our everyday life. It is our source of strength. It also helps in shaping our life. It teaches us the value of love, affection, care, truthfulness and self-confidence and provides us the means which are necessary to get achievement in life.

Family is a place where we can be ourselves. It is a place where we are accepted for who we are. This is where we are completely free and everyone is there to help and guide us. Family encourages us in all our endeavours. It helps us to survive through tough times and bring joy and happiness into our life.

Integrity and honesty are very important in communication in our daily life. It helps to form strong relationships with others and gain trust and understanding. Everyone loves to be in the company of such persons. Family helps bring well being into our life which is necessary to lead a happy life.

One of the most important aims of our life is to build a successful and highly rewarding career. Our families help us in creating a strong future. They give us valuable suggestions about different career prospects. Which not only guides us in choosing the best but also financially enables us to cover the expenses of education. Thus family helps us in making a good future.

The importance of family is probably realized when one goes on a holiday or celebrates an occasion without family members. It is very hard to celebrate an occasion or go on a holiday without being surrounded by family members. At that time we realize how important family is to us.

Today, a lot of people also don't realize the importance of family. They prefer to spend most of their time with their friends. But when they have any problems, it is their family that helps them to get rid of the problems. At that time, even our best friends may not have time to help us but our family will come forward to help us. So it is very important for each and every individual to give importance to their families above anything else and create memorable moments with their families.
